WallBalls!

I wanted to create something completely different for my collectors to put on their walls. I wanted it to be unexpected, vibrant, and joyful. I wanted it to be playful yet sophisticated, modern yet timeless.

WallBalls! happened. They exceeded my expectations and created endless possibilities. They are the cool alternative to framed pictures, plus they can go where no framed picture has gone before!

Each ball is cast from liquid clay and then individually hand-carved. Once dry the balls are sponged smooth and bisque fired. The balls are then painstakingly glazed in a multi-firing process. No dipping or spraying, all the glazing is done by hand with brushes.

To hang, a wooden disc is attached to the wall designed to hold the balls flush against the wall, creating the appearance that they are emerging from the surface.

It is my hope that this work delights and engages and redefines what qualifies as "wall art". It is my hope that this work makes you smile.
